Muja, the oldest alligator in the world

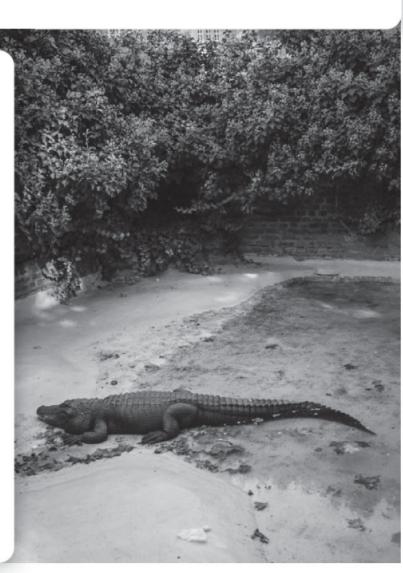

The Belgrade Zoo is a very old one. A lot of people visit it every year. One of the biggest attractions of the Belgrade Zoo is one of its residents, an American alligator, Muja.

Muja is 83 years old (or maybe older). He eats once a week, his meal is five or six kilograms of meat. Muja is between two and three metres long. He is very heavy, about 200 kg.

His scales are green, and he has a broad mouth with lots of big, sharp teeth. The colour of his eyes is yellow. It's really amazing that he survives in captivity for so long.

· Circle the correct answer.

Cheetah VS Leopard

Both leopards and cheetahs are big cats. Cheetahs usually hunt during the day, while leopards prefer to hunt at night. At first glance, they look almost the same. Both have spots. But, their spots are different, that's the trick.

A cheetah is the fastest land animal in the world. It can run up to 120 km per hour. Leopards, on the other hand, can run "only" 58 km/h, but they are much better climbers. They are better swimmers, too. Leopards are the shortest of all big cats. Cheetahs are not only faster, but also taller. Both leopards' and cheetahs' cubs are born completely blind, but they open their eyes within 10 days.

Tip VS stands for Versus • which means against, opposed to Write something about your favourite animal. Compare the description with a similar one. Don't forget to use some of the adjectives which describe animals just like in the text above.
