REVISION

Do you remember what the different grammar words are and how to use them in a sentence?

NOUNS

– are words used to name persons, things or ideas.

There are different types of nouns:

- Proper nouns, which always start with a capital letter; e.g. Nick, Marko, England, Serbia, June, Sunday
- Common nouns, which always start with a small letter; e.g. a book, a chair, an apple, milk, sugar
- Countable nouns, which we can count and which have a singular and plural form; e.g. This is a book. There are ten books.
- Uncountable nouns, which we cannot count and only have a singular form; e.g. sugar, water, butter, milk; There is some milk in the jug.
- Abstract nouns, which name things we cannot see or touch; e.g. luck, size, fun, language, truth.
- Compound nouns, which are made up of two or more words; e.g. dining room, make-up, babysitter, T-shirt, pen-friend, fish-and-chip shop
- Singular nouns, which are used to talk about one person, thing or idea
- Plural nouns, which are used to talk about more than one person, thing or idea. We add s or es to most singular nouns to form a regular plural noun; e.g. cars, books, boxes, watches

There are some nouns that do not follow this rule and they are called irregular plural nouns; e.g. feet (plural of foot), teeth (plural of tooth), mice (plural of mouse), children (plural of child), etc.

VERBS

 are words used to say what someone or something does or what happens to them. The base form of the verb is called the infinitive and is often used with 'to' in front of it; e.g. to go, to work, to see

There are different types of verbs:

- Regular verbs, which form the past tense and the past participle with -ed; e.g. to work - worked - worked
- Irregular verbs, which have no rule for making the past tense and the past participle; e.g. to go went gone
- Modal verbs, which are used with other verbs and have an infinitive without 'to'
 and have the same form for all persons: e.g. must, can, may, should; I can run fast. She can sing well.

ADJECTIVES

 are words which go with nouns and are used to tell us more about someone or something; e.g. big, small, my, happy, red

There are different types of adjectives:

Descriptive adjectives, which tell us what things are like; e.g. big, red, boring; That's an interesting book.

Possessive adjectives, which tell us whose things are; e.g. my, his, her, its, your, our, their; She is my friend.

ADVERBS

- are words used to talk about when, how and where things happen.

There are different types of adverbs:

- Adverbs of time tell us when things happen; e.g. now, today, tomorrow, yesterday, already, yet, etc; They arrived yesterday.
- Adverbs of place tell us where things happen; e.g. here, there, everywhere, somewhere, anywhere, etc.; I'll wait here.
- Adverbs of manner explain how things happen; e.g. slowly, quickly, silently, loudly, etc.; He was talking loudly.
- Adverbs of frequency tell us how often things happen; e.g. usually, sometimes, often, rarely, etc.; They often visit us.

PRONOUNS

 are words used in place of nouns when you do not want to name someone or something.

There are different types of pronouns:

- Personal subject pronouns: e.g. I, you, he, she, it, we, they; She's pretty.
- Personal object pronouns: e.g. me, you, him, her, it, us, them; Look at her!
- Possessive pronouns: e.g. mine, yours, his, hers, its, ours, theirs; The car is mine.
- Demonstrative pronouns, which are used to show which things or people we are talking about: e.g. this, that, these, those; These are my books.
- Indefinite pronouns, which are used to talk about things or people in a general way: e.g. something, anyone, one, someone, nobody
- Interrogative pronouns, which are used for asking questions: e.g. who, whose, which, what are words which come before a noun or a noun group and tell us more about it;

PREPOSITIONS

 e.g. on, at, in, by, with, next to, between, under, etc.

There are different types of prepositions:

- Prepositions of time: e.g. at, on, in, etc.; John arrived at 5 o'clock in the morning.
- Prepositions of place: e.g. in, on, between, behind, under, etc.; The chair is behind the door.
- Prepositions of movement: e.g. under, over, between, into, out of, under, on, past, along, round, through, etc.; He walked along the street.

ARTICLES

- There are two types of articles:
- The indefinite article 'a/an', which is used before common countable nouns in the singular. It usually means 'one': I have a book.
- The definite article 'the', which is used before nouns in the singular and plural. It usually means 'this/that': The book is interesting.

NUMBERS

- Cardinal numbers: e.g. twenty-three, fifty-one, a hundred, etc.
- Ordinal numbers: e.g. the twenty-second, the fifty-first, the hundredth, etc.

Short answers:

Are you going to play? Yes, I am. / Yes, we are. No, I'm not. / No, we aren't. Is he/she/it going to play? Yes, he/she/it is. No, he/she/it isn't. Are they going to play? Yes, they are. No, they aren't.

SHOULD/SHOULDN'T

We use should/shouldn't + verb to give advice.

You should eat more fruit and vegetables.

You shouldn't eat too much chocolate.

THE POSSESSIVE - 'S

We use 's after nouns to talk about whose things are.

Singular

- We add 's to a name or a singular noun to express possession.
 Nick's friend / my brother's car / a girl's cap / a boy's bike
- If a name ends in 's' we can just add an apostrophe (') Charles' book /James' sister.
- If we talk about things that two people possess, we add 's to the second name or noun.

John and Joan's adventure / his brother and sister's bike.

Plural

- We add an apostrophe (') at the end of regular plural nouns ending in 's' his parents' room / friends' names / girls' game / boys' sport.
- We add 's to irregular plural nouns which do not end in 's' mice's tails / women's department/children's toys / men's shirts.

THE PRESENT CONTINUOUS TENSE FOR FUTURE ARRANGEMENTS

• We often use the Present Continuous tense to talk about things we have already arranged to do in the near future.

They're leaving New York on 15th of July.
I'm meeting Sally at 8 o'clock tomorrow.
Nick is meeting Marko at the airport in on Tuesday.

- We often use it with the verbs: come, visit, arrive, go, meet, leave, stay.
- We use the following time expressions: tomorrow, soon, in ten days, on Sunday/ Monday, this afternoon, at 6 pm, etc.
- We form the present continuous tense with the present tense of the verb to be and the main verb+ing. (see Unit 1).

QUESTION TAGS

Question tags are short questions at the end of a sentence.

- We use these short questions to check information.
- If the sentence is affirmative, the question tag is a short negative question at the end.

I'm next, aren't !? We're early, aren't we?
He's clever, isn't he? You're twins, aren't you?
She's tired, isn't she? They're coming, aren't they?

It's going to rain, isn't it?

Prepositions of time IN, ON, AT

• We use different prepositions to talk about when things happen.

IN ON AT
