A school day of a 13-year-old British boy

I'm in Year 8. I leave home at 6:45 and walk 20 minutes to catch a bus to school. The bus is a special one just for kids going to my school. The journey on the bus takes an hour because it has to stop to pick up other students along the way.

At 8:50 I have my First Period. Each period lasts an hour. All my lessons are in different rooms and places around the school. Each room has a three digit number or a name. The numbers are very hard to remember! The fifth (and the last) period ends at 3:10 p.m. Sometimes I stay after school for clubs.

In my school every student carries a "swipe card" which lets the school know what time we arrive and leave the classroom. There are two stripes on it, black and brown. We use the brown one to enter the classroom and the black one to get into the toilets and buildings.

Teen Life Forum

Friends make the world go round when you are a teenager. And not only then! Find out how to make new friends, build lasting friendships, help a friend in trouble and more.

If you have any questions, please send an e-mail to the Teen Life Forum, www.teentalk.com. Here are a few questions teenagers frequently ask.

Rachel: My best friend Sharon is always there for me. She's very devoted. The problem is I want to hang out with some other people from school too. But she simply doesn't fit in with them! And she's so clingy. I don't know how to explain to her that she's not the only friend I've got.

Nolan: It's so difficult for me to make new friends. Maybe because I never make the first move. Is there anything I can do about it?

Veronica: I have few friends. I often ask myself why people don't like me. Maybe because I usually say what I think. Is it so bad?

Nick: Do I have to change myself to be friends with someone?

Maybe it's better to lose a friend than change yourself. Honestly, I don't know the answer to this question.

Activity 1

Teenagers always have a language of their own. Some parents find it really difficult to understand their children. The British schoolgirl Lucy van Amerongen (aged 13) wrote the book The A-Z of Teen Talk (2008) to help parents understand their "slang".

Have a look at a few interesting words!

STUDY TIPS
Take notes in class.
Don't cram at the last minute.
Make a plan.
First read the whole text.
Then mark the most important parts.
Use your own words.

Join us for the following project: STUDY TIPS

Let's write the study tips!
Let's help other students find the best way to study!
Let's discuss the study problems!
Tell me about your problem!
I'm going to tell you about mine!

- Do you make a plan before you start studying?
- When do you study best in the morning/afternoon/evening?
- Do you study regularly or cram at the last minute?
- Do you usually study on your own or with a friend?
- Do you always take notes in class?
- Do you prefer studying in silence/with some music in the background?
- Are you good at memorizing things?

2. Track 9 Listen and read.

Let's Discuss It!

Do you have a problem to choose the best way to study? Let's see what problems these students have. Then you can discuss yours!

Monica: I usually cram at the last minute, the night before the test. I stay up late and wake up early dead tired. Every time when it happens, I say to myself - "I have to change this bad habit." But......it never happens.

Daniel: I never take notes in class. That's why I sometimes miss some very important information. I always copy the notes from a friend of mine. What a waste of time!Steve: I'm bad at memorizing things. I tried a few types of learning, but they simply didn't work. I study really hard and then next month I have to do it all over again.

Rebecca: I always need some kind of music in the background. My parents tell me that it's bad for studying, but somehow I can't focus on studying without music.

Allan: I spend a lot of time reading all kinds of information and, in the end, I don't remember the key parts. I think this is a big problem.

Bryan: It's so difficult for me to study on my own. I find it easier to study with someone.

I take my notes, my friend takes his and we quiz each other.

1. Track 13 Listen and read.

A Few Tips

What's the best way to study? When you sit down to study how do you put all the information from the books and notes in front of you into your head? The best way is to develop good study habits.

- Take notes in class! They usually cover the most important information.
- Study regularly! Don't cram at the last minute!
- Rest before you start studying.
- Gather all your class notes and texts in one place.
- Find a good study spot. A bed isn't a very good spot when you're tired.
- You want to listen to music? Well, that's up to you. Some people prefer silence, others music in the background. Generally speaking, TV is a bad idea!
- Always read material twice. First read it from beginning to end just to get the idea what it's all about. Then go back and read it carefully, piece by piece.
- Write down the most important parts.
- · Review them in your own words.
- Take a break when you're tired.
- Don't be afraid to ask a teacher for help.
- · Have a snack.
- It's okay to study late as long as you get six to eight hours of sleep.

Ask your friend.

- Ask why it's important to take notes in class.
- Ask what you must do before you start studying.
- · Ask what kind of background some people prefer.
- Ask what you must do when you get tired.

Megan: Oh, I'm writing a message to Jenny. Just a second! I'm coming.

Mother: Well, you can call her, can't you? You keep sending messages.

You spend two or three hours surfing the Internet every day.

Then you take your mobile phone and text your friends ...... Then you send e-mails.....

Do you communicate at all?

Megan: Well, Mum, as you can see we're communicating all the time. ©

Mother: Oh, it's really funny, isn't it? I didn't mean that. What I mean is you never communicate in person. Mobile phones, e-mail, Facebook....

Megan: Because we don't have time to see each other. It's much faster this way.

Don't be so old-fashioned.

Mother: I don't think I'm old-fashioned. It's just that so many people can read what you write on all these sites. And these are your personal things.

Megan: OK, Mum, it's not what you think, believe me. Anyway, I don't have time now. Bryan is picking me up at 7. The school band "Play" is giving a concert in school tonight. We're raising money for "Children in Need".

Mother: What time are you coming back? Do you want me to come and pick you up?

Megan: Oh, don't worry! Ann's dad is coming at 9:00. We're coming back together.

Unbelievable Stories

This is a story of the world's (un)luckiest man.

A music teacher, born in 1929, survived so many unbelievable situations. It's really hard to believe his story but it really happened like this. In 1963 he was on a plane when it crashed. He survived with few injuries. Then in 1973, he was in a car when it caught fire. He survived. In 1995, a city bus hit him. Again he survived without any injuries. In 1996, he drove off the road and landed in a tree. And then...in 2003...you wonder what happened next?! He won a million dollars in the lottery. When his friends from Australia invited him to come, he refused to travel by plane. He didn't want to test his luck once again!

This is a story of identical twins from Ohio who grew up in different families.

They were both named James. Both of them could write at the age of 3 and read at the age of 4. Both of them studied law, were good at painting, had wives named Linda, had sons with the same name Allan, had dogs named Toy. They met by chance at the age of 40. They simply couldn't believe that their lives were identical.

Writers in Unbelievable Stories

Tim: Look what I found! These stories are totally amazing.

Brendon: What do you mean amazing? What is so unusual about them? Tim: Well, they are all about writers and coincidences. Listen!

1) Norman Mailer, a famous American writer, wrote a novel about a top Russian spy. One day the police arrested a man who lived just one floor above him, in the same block of flats. He was the top Russian spy at that time.

2) The writer Mark Twain was born on the day when Halley's Comet appeared in 1835 and died on the day when it appeared for the second time in 1910.

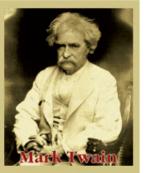

3) Morgan Robertson wrote a novel (in 1898) in which he described the largest luxury ship at that time named the Titan. It sank in April when it hit the iceberg. The famous Titanic had a similar name, sank the same way, in the same month (April 14th, 1912), with the same number of passengers (3000) and the same number of lifeboats (20).

2. Correct the statements.

Marko: I'm sure the Chinese and the Greeks have one thing in common - English ©

Ana: Then travelling and communication.....if you go to Holland for example, you don't have to speak Dutch. They all speak English very well.

Marko: English is important because a lot of good films and music are in English.

I sing in a band and all our songs are in English.

Teacher: Do you think other languages are as important as English?

Tamara: Well, I think they are. It's nice to speak other languages too.

Teacher: Is English difficult? Is it maybe easier than other languages?

Ana: Well, maybe grammar is not as difficult as in some other languages.

Marko: I find irregular verbs and articles quite difficult.

Ana: What about spelling? You simply have to learn how to write some words by heart.

There are no rules in English. And sometimes I'm really amazed.

I mean the way you write a word and the way you pronounce it.... quite different!

Filip: Yes, I have. Twice. I was in England three years ago for the first time and then again last year. How about you?

Ana: No, I've never been there. In fact I've never travelled abroad. But I would really like to go to England. I love travelling.

Filip: So do I. London is enormous and fascinating. You can see people from all over the world there and you can hear so many different languages and accents. It's a cosmopolitan city.

Ana: What did you like best of all?

Filip: Well, it's hard to say. Actually, when you go somewhere for the first time you usually see the most important tourist attractions such as Big Ben, Tower Bridge, the Tower of London, Trafalgar Square......But when I went to the UK again I visited some even more interesting places.

Ana: Such as?

Filip: For example the Natural History Museum, London Zoo....

Ana: Have you ever been to Oxford?

Filip: Yes, last year I visited Oxford, Cambridge and Stratford-upon-Avon, the birthplace of Shakespeare.

Ana: Where did you stay when you were there?

Filip: Three years ago I stayed at a small hotel in the south of London. But when I went there again last year I stayed with a British family, which was much better for my English. I had a chance to speak English all the time.

Britain and the British

THE TOWER OF LONDON has been one of the most famous landmarks of the city for over 900 years. This historic monument is situated in central London, on the north bank of the River Thames. In the past it served as a prison, a royal palace, a fortress and even a zoo.

OXFORD AND CAMBRIDGE are among the oldest and the most famous universities in the world. Cambridge is a university town. The River Cam runs through it. Cambridge is also famous for the habit of its residents to travel by bicycle in the busy, narrow streets. Punting on the River Cam in the famous boats called "punts" is a part of the tourist attraction. The popular Boat Race between the Oxford and Cambridge University Boat Clubs takes place each spring on the Thames in London. Members of both teams are called "blues" with Cambridge in a light blue and Oxford in a dark blue boat. There has been a rivalry between them for a long time.

STRATFORD-UPON-AVON is the birthplace of the most famous English poet and playwright William Shakespeare who was born in the 16th century (1564-1616). "Hamlet" and "Romeo and Juliet" are some of Shakespeare's famous plays.

Mrs Thomson, our dietician, is ready to read your letters about any problem you have. You weigh too much... you don't eat regularly... you eat too much junk food... you want to lose or gain some weight – just write to her and she's going to help you.

Dear Mrs Thomson,

I've just read your article about healthy eating habits and I've decided to write a letter to you. I'm twelve. I've had a small problem for some time now. I often feel dizzy. I've never had any problem of this kind before. I weigh 56 kilos and I'm 1.69 tall. My mother assures me it happens to me because I don't have a proper breakfast in the morning. Actually, she's constantly nagging me about what I eat, how I eat, when I eat and when I don't eat. I can't explain to her that I'm not one of those who get up at 6 o'clock in the morning to have a good breakfast and drink a glass of fresh juice. I simply can't eat early in the morning. She also gets mad at me because of the junk food and snacks I eat with my friends. When I was younger I played sports three times a week and had proper meals. Now I have very little time for any physical activity because I have to study a lot. What can I do? Any advice?

Yours sincerely, Emma

Golden Rules

Dear Emma,

The whole thing is quite simple. Read my golden rules! You can find them helpful!

Besides healthy eating habits, any physical activity is absolutely necessary to feel more energetic, especially for teenagers with a busy life. No matter how busy you are, try to find a little time for yourself.

Eat different kinds of meat and lots of fish, fruit and vegetables. Try to eat more boiled vegetables and less fried food.

REGULAR MEALS

You mustn't skip meals. It's better to have a few meals a day than just one, especially later in the evening.

NO JUNK FOOD

Don't be too lazy to have a proper meal! Fast food, crisps, biscuits, chocolates... go easy on them! It's so easy to open a bag of crisps and so hard to lose weight! Snack on fresh fruit whenever you are hungry.

- 2. Correct the statements.

Some things have never gone out of fashion like a good pair of jeans.

Amanda: I used to think like that too a few years ago. But then I started buying brand name clothes. I paid a fortune for a shirt last year.....

Paul: And when did you last wear it? Maybe you can't even remember. Well, my parents don't want to pay just for a name on my sweatshirt. They say money doesn't grow on trees.

David: The most important thing is to be different....expensive clothes or clothes on sale... ....it doesn't really matter.

Laura: Oh, come on! To be different? Why? Do you feel better that way? The only thing that matters, in my opinion, is to wear clothes that fit well and make you feel good. Will a huge name on your tee make you feel more self-confident?

There are a lot of different organizations all over the world which are fighting to protect animals. First of all, they are doing their best to stop killing animals such as foxes and rabbits for fur. The slogans speak for themselves - "Fur is dead", "When you stop buying, the animals stop dying" and "Let bunnies keep their fur instead of turning them into gloves!" What happened in the Netherlands? People don't wear so much fur as they used to in the past, thanks to these organizations. Besides, a lot of designers started using fake fur. # A Postcard from the Big Apple

Hello there!

I've been here for almost three weeks now. All I can say is New York City is incredible! There's so much life here. This city never sleeps. All these skyscrapers make the skyline totally amazing. I've seen some of íts landmarks so far – The Statue of Líberty, Ellís Island, the Empire State Building, Times Square.... then Central Park which is stunning.....Travelling by subway makes it faster. And there's a big mix of people here. A famous joke goes like this: "Sometimes you can even hear English in New York!" My host family is great. They have a son of my age. I hope he'll come to Belgrade to visit me. They're doing their best to help me improve my English. I have to admit something - now I understand all those grammar drills in my English class.....They aren't useless, after all 1'm sure this holiday will leave me wanting to come back for more.
